It's a packed stellar month with two New Moons, Mercury at inferior conjunction, Mars is stationing and turning retrograde, Venus will oppose Mars, Neptune is stationing direct, Jupiter will square Saturn, plus of course we have the solstice.

In January I will have a trade stand at the FAA Conference where I will have calendars, hand crafted gift cards and my books for sale. I hope to see you there!

SAGITTARIUS NEW MOON

This is the first of two New Moons this month.

Sagittarius is where the fire element and mutable quality meet. It's an outgoing, exuberant sign, ruled by giant Jupiter.

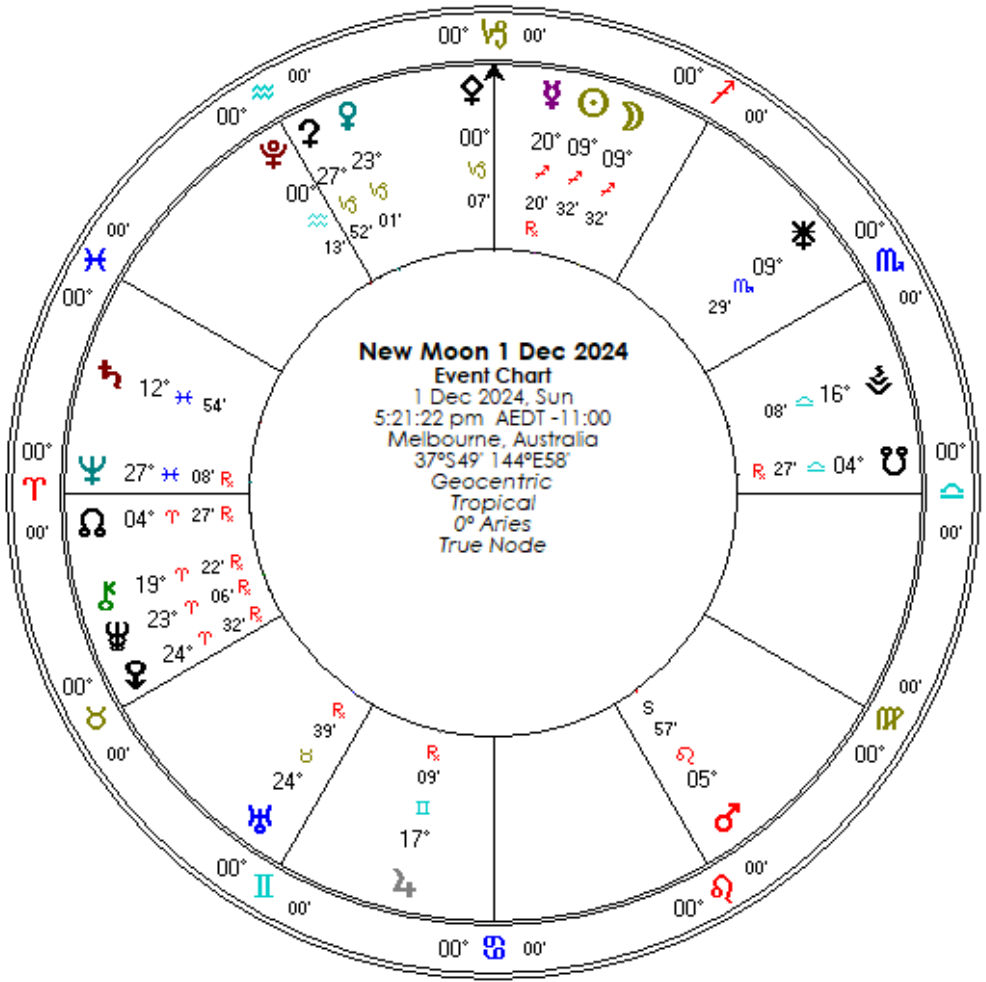

to either be detail focused, or have a broader perspective. This celestial arrangement can be polarising, but it can also foster understanding. Though we may not change our opinions, we can listen and learn.

still now, with its exact station happening a few days after this New Moon. Mars and Pluto are still within orb of opposition, and this aspect will continue into the new year, so try to keep calm and avoid any conflicts or heated debates that could escalate.

Mars is at a virtual stand-

Jupiter is close to the Earth now, moving retrograde in Gemini, the opposite sign to Sagittarius, and Mercury, Gemini's ruling planet, is also retrograde and in Sagittarius. With these two in one another's sign, in opposition and both retrograde, communication is a key feature now.

This is an opportunity to learn. People have a tendency

GEMINI FULL MOON

Mercury stations direct about 12 hours after this Full Moon, urging us to finalise projects and make last minute end of year plans.

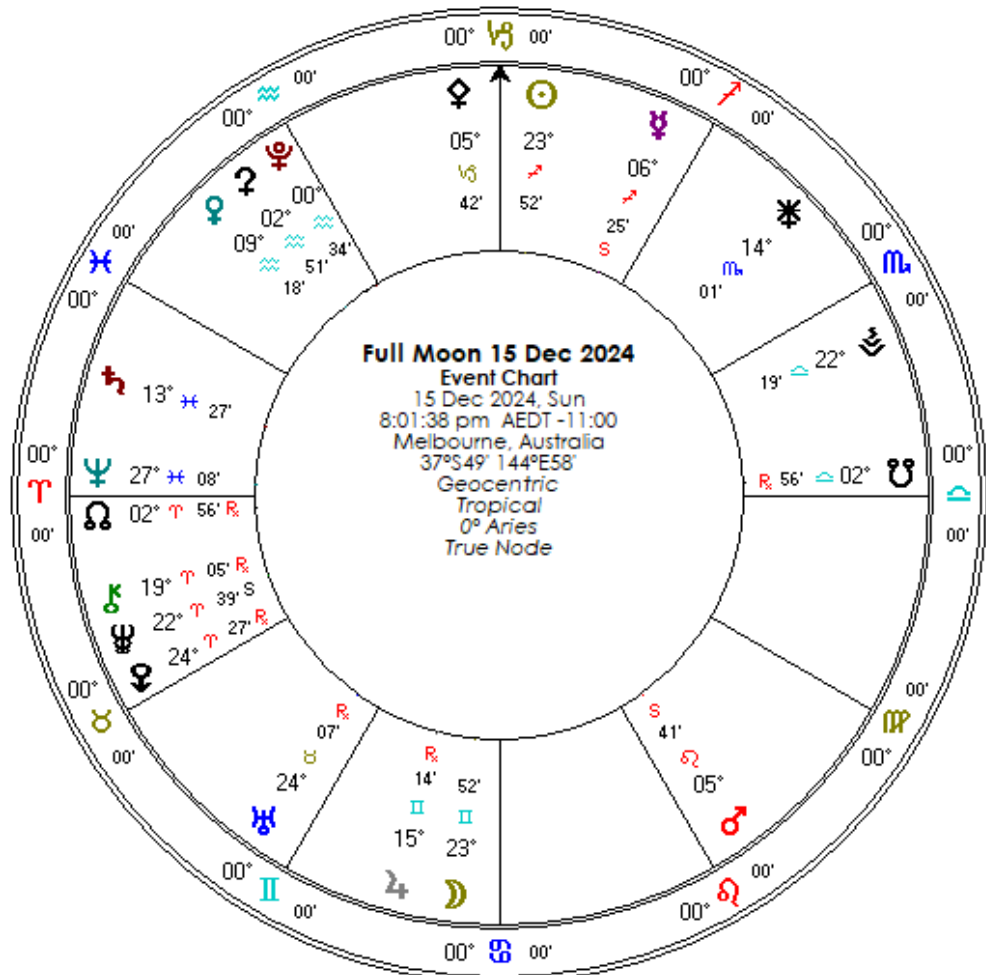

With Pluto and Ceres also involved with this Venus-Mars opposition, women's values are key. Venus tends to assess things by quality, while Mars prefers to measure events by quantity. The focus now is on quality values and associated priorities.

Stationary Mercury and stationary Mars are in a trine, allowing us to focus on what needs to be done.

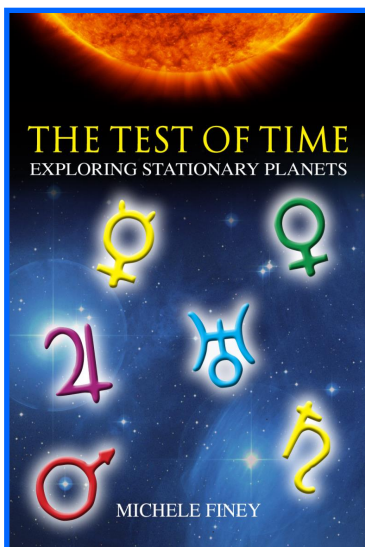

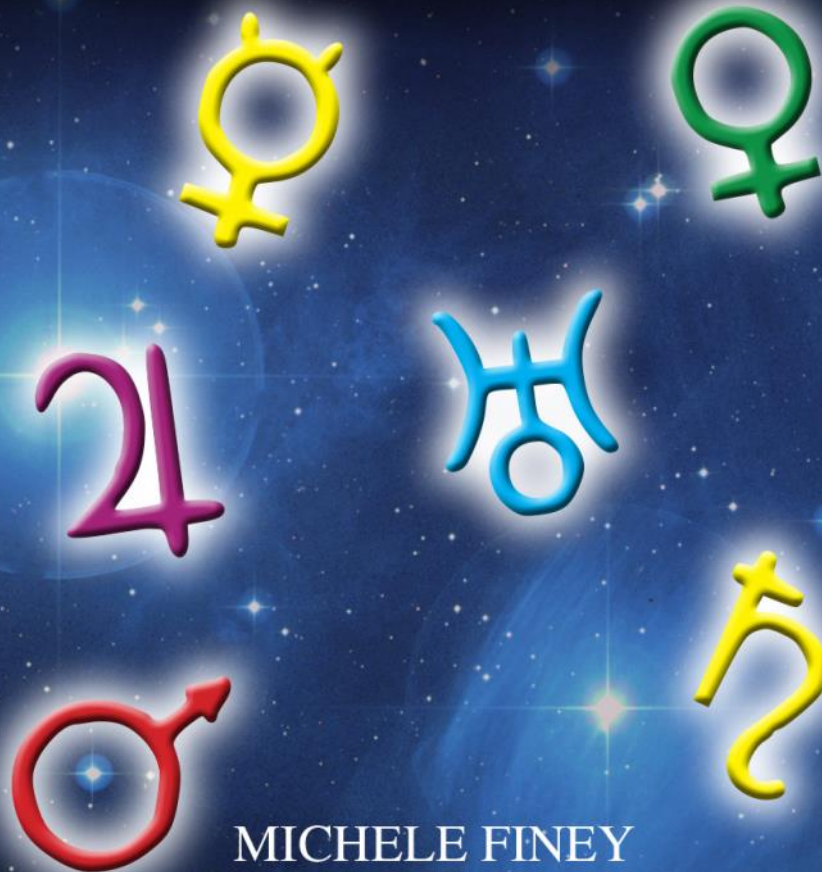

The Nodal Axis is about to shift signs, tracking back into Pisces, where it will soon join nebulous Neptune. This foreshadows some strange and magical events, odd connections and synchronicities.

Last week we also saw a Venus-Mars opposition, and it's still within orb. This aspect invites passionate exchanges, both physical and emotional. Mars is still at a virtual standstill and is opposing the location where he united with Venus back in February, so we might have to revisit past relationship events or issues, or have an opportunity to reconnect with people from the past.

SOLSTICE & CAPRICORN NEW MOON

Once again the Earth and Sun are in alignment as a new season is ushered in. At this solstice, the Sun is squaring the nodal axis, suggesting a significant turning point is underway. The Sun is also squaring Neptune. In fact, Neptune will be making a hard aspect to every solstice and equinox throughout 2025 and into 2026. This suggests more issues concerning water are likely over the coming year. Extreme weather events are becoming commonplace, and we can expect more to come as climate change continues to impact planet Earth and its inhabitants.

Neptune will soon shift into Aries, which is likely to shape the world and our collective experiences for the next decade and beyond. I recently spoke about the symbols, themes and history of this ingress. If you want to take a closer look at how Neptune in Aries might shape the coming 13 years you can get the recording here.

2024 concludes with another New Moon, this one is on New Year's Eve. Jupiter is squaring Saturn, with more hits to follow in January. Jupiter-Saturn squares are sometimes tricky and this is a mutable square, so we might feel like we are taking two steps back before we can move forward. Confidence (Jupiter) needs to be balanced with caution (Saturn) which could be challenging. A range of adjustments and detailed negotiations are indicated. Mars is still retro and opposing Pluto, which is set to continue into 2025, sadly suggesting the potential for ongoing global conflict.
