Jupiter and Uranus aligned on 21 April and the excitement of this union is still playing out. This conjunction only happens once every 14 years, so take advantage of any opportunities for advancement. This recent conjunction was at 21 degrees Taurus, so further surprising developments are possible if you have planets located around this area. On the whole, this is an enlightening and expansive alignment, but if taken too far, exuberance can run amok and send things off the rails.

My exciting news is that I will soon be launching my new website!! I'm just getting my brain into gear as to how to use it, so hopefully it will be up and running soon.

The price of my annual astrology calendar will increase to $30 this year. Production costs and ever increasing postage costs have made this price rise necessary. I have made a few additions and changes to the format this year to keep things fresh!

TAURUS NEW MOON

Taurus is a combination of the earth element and the fixed modality. With its ruling planet Venus, this speaks to the Taurean connection with the natural beauty of the Earth. This earthy sign is deeply connected to the environment and the land.

Mercury and Chiron are together in Aries, with a stellium of planets linked from late Pisces to late Taurus. Only Pluto and the main asteroids are outside this cluster. The focus of all this activity centres around the Chiron-Mercury conjunction, which squares stationary Ceres. This pattern suggests intense conversations concerning the impacts of climate change and other environmental hazards that require solutions. Chiron is a healer and will always work hard to find solutions to wounds. In this case, the wounds to planet Earth are the focus.

At this New Moon, Ceres is a week away from her station retrograde, and is moving slow enough to be considered stationary. Ceres is also associated with the bounty of the Earth.

Planetary stations appear to happen because of their angle to the Sun and the Earth, so we can conclude that the environment will

SAGITTARIUS FULL MOON

Full Moons, like all opposition aspects, are when a particular cycle reaches a peak, ushering in a waning cycle, which is a time of integration and internal assimilation.

With Venus and Jupiter about to launch into sociable Gemini, we can expect social activity to ramp up over coming weeks, though perhaps not right away.

Jupiter and Venus will cross into Gemini within days, making air trines with Pluto, and at this lunation the Sun and Moon are making favourable aspects with Pluto too. This combination arouses a sense of joy and optimism as well as seeding positive change.

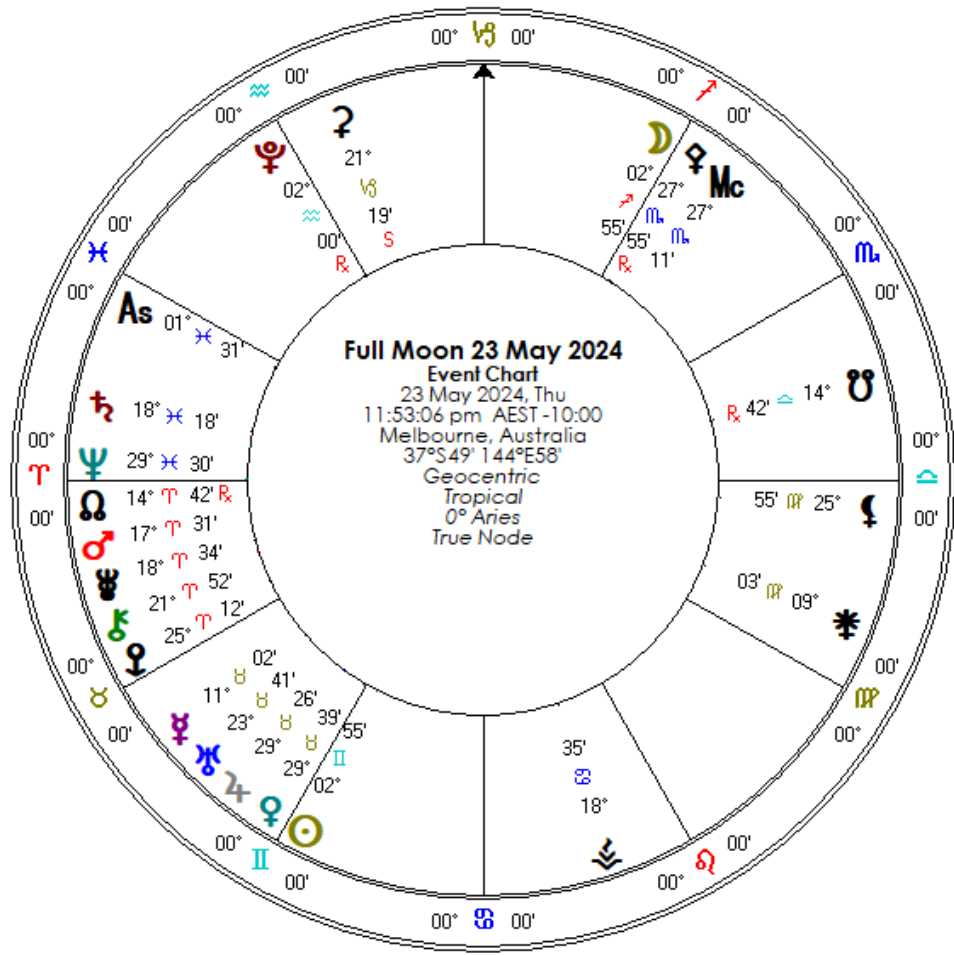

With Jupiter so close to Venus, this is a creative and artistic lunation. Opportunities for showcasing one's talents are available.

Venus and Jupiter are tightly aligned, but this conjunction is not visible in the morning sky as they are very close to the Sun. Nevertheless, this is a positive aspect and it could trigger some surprises as maverick Uranus is not far away, also joining Venus on the 18th.

Ceres is still virtually stationary and forges a happy trine with Uranus, providing new ideas and creative solutions to environmental problems.

NEPTUNE

Neptune is an elusive, nebulous symbol, full of mystery and illusion.

For the past 13 years Neptune has been drifting through Pisces, where it has close symbolic ties. The lord of the oceans has been in its own watery domain, a place of its modern day rulership.

Neptune is now at the very end of Pisces, and is about to cross into cardinal fire sign Aries. At the same time Saturn is its travelling companion and it too will cross into Aries along with Neptune.

Even if you prefer the traditional approach to rulership, you can't ignore the affinity that Neptune has with the sign of Pisces. These are both watery, imaginative symbols.

The symbols associated with both sign and planet are interchangeable, so Neptune in Pisces is right at home. Consequently, we have seen the themes and concepts associated with Neptune overflowing, often flooding us with confusion and misinformation. It's now increasingly difficult to tell the difference between reality and virtual reality.

It's always difficult to understand Neptune and so it will be difficult to interpret what collective themes and events are likely over the coming 13 years, especially as Saturn will accompany Neptune for some considerable time.

I'm currently investigating the past transits of Neptune in Aries to try to comprehend this upcoming cycle.

Fake news, conspiracy theories, media spin, influencers, viral posts on social media, and other examples of Neptune have been showering us with Neptune fairy dust.

Meanwhile, some of the real issues associated with Neptune, such as climate change, sea-level rise and plastic in our oceans have mostly been avoided or deemed to be way too vast to comprehend, let
